

CONTENTS

Introduction	I
I. The Problem of Measuring the Average Change of Prices between Two Periods	9
II. The Problem of Measuring the Average Change of Prices between Three or More Periods	36
III. Comparison of Fixed Weight Indexes with Variable Weight Indexes for Three or More Periods	44
IV. Special Difficulties (other than the Problem of Averaging Given Homogeneous Data) of obtaining Satisfactory Price Indexes for Two or More Periods or Places	59
V. The Divergence of Chain Indexes from Corresponding Fixed Base Indexes	64
VI. Summary	80
Index	89