

There has of late been some talk of establishing an air-line between Europe and America with Iceland as a halting-place because of its situation in the northern Atlantic. But though some trials have already been made at crossing the Atlantic that way, the matter cannot yet be said to have passed the experimental stage.