

54 RELIGION, COLONISING AND TRADE

as based on ocean-borne commerce, and trade became the dominating influence of the reign of Charles II. It overshadowed colonisation, except where and when colonisation ministered to trade, and religion was relegated to the background as an Empire-making force.